

FoodSmart

Foodsmart will be a multi-function cooking app that will help the user get creative with their cooking. In this app the user will be able to search and explore multiple recipes and in a easy way create a shopping list for their desired ingredients. What will be special with this app from other recipe applications is that this app will give recommendations on relevant recipes containing those ingredients. There will be a navigation controller on the top left to navigate through the app such as:

- Search recipe
- Recipes containing ingredients the user have at home
- Shopping list

Search recipe

Here the user can search on popular recipes or a special recipe that they want to try out, using keywords. Under the search bar there will be a set of categories if the user doesn't exactly know what to cook. There will also be a saved/favorite recipe list with recipes the user have chosen to save.

Recipes containing ingredients the user have at home

Take a look at what you have in your fridge and then tell FoodSmart. The app will then provide an amount of random recipes containing those ingredients (or recipes with just some of those ingredients).

Shopping list

Maybe the user don't have all the ingredients that you need to have, in order to make your meal. Don't worry, just send the ingredients that they don't have to the shopping list and they will have an easy time getting those ingredients in the store.

FoodSmart will help the user be creative at any moment. Just by clicking on a button the user will either have a great idea of what to do or inspiration for other days when he/she have trouble with their imagination.

